How the Interrail Pass Works

What travel documents do I need?

The Interrail Pass consists of the Pass Cover with an attached ticket, which should not be detached under any circumstances. You also receive a map and this Pass Guide.

Aside from your Interrail Pass, you will of course need a valid passport or a legal equivalent. Travel insurance is also strongly recommended – this is not included in your pass!

Once you have received your Interrail Global Pass, check it carefully to ensure that all of your personal details are correct. Should there be any mistakes, it is important to take it back to the point of purchase for correction before you start travelling.

What is the Interrail Pass Cover for?

The Pass Cover protects your Interrail Pass ticket, which is stapled inside. It also includes the Travel Diary that you must present, together with the ticket, to ticket inspectors. It is compulsory to update your Travel Diary journey details before each trip that you make.

Is my Interrail Pass valid for all trains and boats in Europe?

An Interrail Pass is valid for travel in the country or with the company printed on your ticket. You will find a list of all the countries and companies for which the Global Pass is valid on page 5 of this guide. The Rail Planner App specifies the different participating railway companies including participating private railways and shipping companies. This information can be found in the Rail Planner App under Pass Benefits and is listed per country.

For free passage on international ferry routes, your Interrail Pass must be valid for the country of departure AND the country of arrival. For discounted passage, the pass must be valid for the country of departure OR the country of arrival.

Please note that reservation costs and surcharges required for overnight beds and seats on certain international and high-speed trains are not included. See “How do I make seat and bed reservations?” on page 11.

Travel in your country of residence

The country in which you live and/or have citizenship of is referred to as your country of residence. You can find it printed on your ticket in the top-right corner. An Interrail Pass cannot be used for free travel in this country. However, the Interrail Global Pass allows you to make two trips in your country of residence, provided it is an Interrail member country*. These trips are referred to as the outbound and inbound journey.

- The outbound journey can be used to travel from any location in your country of residence to the border or an airport/port.
- The inbound journey can be used to travel from the border or an airport/port back within your country of residence.

You may travel with more than one train, provided the trips are within the same day. Please note that the special rule for travel with an overnight train also applies; see detailed conditions on page 10.

What to do when travelling in your country of residence

Step 1 Fill in the outbound/inbound date on your Pass Cover

Before boarding, enter the date on which you are using the outbound

X Outbound journey	Day	15	Month	11
X Inbound journey	Day	06	Month	12

journey in the designated area on of the Travel Diary. Do the same when making your inbound journey. If you do not make use of these trips, this space can be left blank.

Step 2 Fill in your trip details

As with all other trips, make sure that all trains of each outbound and inbound trip are registered in the journey details section of your Travel Diary.

Step 3 Flexi Pass? Mark the date on your ticket

If you have a Flexi Pass you are required to use a travel day on your ticket.

The screenshot shows the 'Travel Diary' section of the Interrail Pass. It includes a grid for recording travel details. A red circle with the number 3 points to the 'Journey details' section. A red circle with the number 1 points to the 'Flexi Pass' section. A red circle with the number 2 points to the 'Travel day' section.

How often can I use my Interrail Pass?

There are two different types of passes:

- The Continuous Pass can be used as often as you want during the period that it is valid for.
- The Flexi Pass can only be used for a specific number of travel days during the overall period of validity.

Please note that you can take your first trip anytime after 00.00 hours on the first day that your pass is valid and you must finish your last trip by midnight (24.00 hours) on the last day of validity.

* All countries listed on page 5 of this guide are Interrail member countries

Using the Interrail Flexi Pass

If you have a Flexi Pass, please read the following information carefully to make sure you use your pass correctly.

What's the Travel Calendar on the Flexi Pass ticket for?

Your Flexi Pass entitles you to a set number of travel days within a specific period. On any travel day, you can hop on and off as many trains as you like, but please check in advance if a reservation is recommended or compulsory.

Before you board your first train of the day, it is compulsory that you mark the date on the Travel Calendar. Not doing so is considered the same as travelling without a ticket, which means you will have to pay for a full-fare ticket and may also risk having to pay a fine.

How do I use the Travel Calendar on the ticket?

Your Travel Calendar will have a day and month box for each of the travel days you are entitled to. Depending on the type of Travel Calendar that you have, the date needs be either written down or scratched open. Even if you already have a carefully planned schedule worked out, do not mark all the dates in the calendar at once— you will lose all flexibility as to when you can travel! For the written calendar, as you start each travel day, write the day and month in the correct boxes under “1,” for the first travel day, “2” for the second, and so on. Do not use pencil –you must use blue or black non-erasable ink! With the scratch calendar, simply scratch open the day on which you want to travel using the boxes provided.

Travel day in Travel Calendar

Do's and don'ts for the written Travel Calendar

- Only use a pen with black or blue ink (not erasable)
- Do not use pencil
- Never correct a date
- Enter 2 digits per day/month; see example

What if I make a mistake in the Travel Calendar?

Be very careful. Mistakes cannot be corrected, since an altered travel date can be interpreted as attempted fraud. In case you made a mistake, you will have to mark the correct date in a new box which means you lose one travel day.

How to mark an overnight journey in the Flexi Pass Travel Calendar and save a travel day

A travel day lasts from midnight to midnight. For all overnight trips, your Interrail Pass must be valid on the dates of departure and arrival. However, depending on the departure time of the overnight train, there is a special Interrail rule that could save you a travel day.

If you board a direct overnight train (with no connections/no change of trains) after 19.00h (7pm), which arrives at its final destination after 04.00h (4am), you only need to use one travel day – the date of arrival. For instance, if you take the direct overnight train from Budapest to Munich, which departs on 2nd August at 21.10h (09:10pm) and arrives the following morning at 06.15h (06:15am), you only have to mark 3rd August in the Travel Calendar. If you board an overnight train before 19.00h (7pm), you need to use two travel days. When travelling by night ferry, you only have to use one travel day. You may mark either the date of departure or arrival on your Travel Calendar. The choice is yours.

Does my Interrail Pass entitle me to extra benefits?

Yes, your pass entitles you to a great range of special benefits including free or discounted transportation on European buses and ferries. For the complete list of extra benefits, check the Pass Benefits section of the Rail Planner App. For more information see also page 12.

How do I make seat and bed reservations?

Certain trains – such as high-speed, international and overnight trains – usually require you to reserve a seat or a bed for an extra fee. Seats on these trains in popular countries like France and Italy can be in great demand during July and August and the number of seats allocated to Interrail Pass holders on these trains can be limited. However, Austrian and German high-speed trains usually do not require reservations.

Because of this demand, booking in advance is strongly recommended (most trains can be booked up to three months in advance). Should seats for pass holders be sold out for a train you want, you will have the option to purchase a full-fare ticket. However, you can also try a different day or time, or perhaps consider an alternative route. To find out whether a train requires a reservation, consult your travel agent, a railway company or the Interrail Rail Planner App. Booking a reservation can be done through these same channels. For more information about reservations see point 8 of the Conditions of Use, or visit www.eurailgroup.org/interrailreservations.

Tip: On the Rail Planner App, it is possible to use the filter “Trains without compulsory reservations” to plan your trip. Please note that you might spend more time travelling and may need to make more changes of trains.

Pass Benefits

As an Interrail Pass holder, you can take advantage of many other extra benefits such as discounted boat tours, hotel rooms, museum tickets and much more. These benefits can usually be arranged on the spot. For some benefits, particularly with international shipping lines, advance booking is needed.

Tip: On the Interrail Rail Planner App, in the Pass Benefits section, you will find the necessary contact details for making reservations with the benefit partner concerned (phone number, email address or website).

When making use of the benefits, keep the following points in mind:

For Flexi Pass holders:

- You may only use free transportation on a travel day that you have marked in your Travel Calendar.
- Discounted travel does not require use of a travel day. You can take advantage of this at any time (even if you have used all your travel days) as long as your journey takes place within the overall validity of your pass.

For Continuous Pass holders:

- You can take advantage of the benefits until the last day on which your pass is valid.

Please note that benefits are subject to change without prior notice: before booking or buying a ticket, confirm that the company still honors the discount.

Conditions of Use

1. Interrail Pass definition

An Interrail Pass consists of a ticket and a Pass Cover. Neither the ticket nor the Pass Cover is valid on its own. Those who travel using one without the other are subject to the payment of a full-fare ticket and a maximum fine of 200 euro, subject to the rules of the relevant railway undertaking.

2. An Interrail Pass is strictly personal

An Interrail Pass is strictly personal, non-transferable and valid only upon presentation of a passport or other recognized photographic identification document (no copies accepted). Those who travel on an Interrail Pass without a passport or a legal equivalent are subject to the payment of a full-fare ticket and a maximum fine of 200 euro, subject to the rules of the relevant railway undertaking.

3. Countries and companies for which the Interrail Pass is valid

3.1 Validity of the pass

The Interrail Global Pass is valid for travel with the participating railway undertakings and shipping companies in the countries listed on page 5. All participating railway undertakings and shipping companies are listed in the Interrail Rail Planner App under Pass Benefits. An Interrail Global Pass has limited validity for travel in the country of residence of the pass holder. For detailed conditions refer to page 8. Interrail One Country Passes are only valid for the country printed on the ticket. An Interrail Benelux One Country Pass is valid in Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Belgium. One Country Passes are not valid in the country of residence of the pass holder.

3.2 Journey not entirely covered by the validity of the pass

If a traveller chooses to make a journey which is not entirely covered by the validity of his pass, the missing section has to be paid for at a normal fare.

4. Benefits

Benefits are price reductions offered to the pass holders. A benefit can only be obtained:

- On presentation of a pass.
- Within the overall validity of a pass.
- If the Interrail Pass is valid in the country in which the benefit is granted.
- Generally only from the local ticket office, call-centre or website of the company offering the benefit.

Interrail Passes entitle the holder to benefits on the lines of companies and non-transportation organisations as listed in the Rail Planner App. For details regarding the specific benefits see the Rail Planner App. There are two kinds of benefits, namely those entitling to free passage/entrance and those granting a reduction.

4.1 Free and reduction benefits

For both free and reduction benefits for a domestic service the pass must be valid in the country where the service is granted. For a reduction benefit on an international shipping line the pass must be valid in the country of departure or the country of arrival but for a free benefit on an international shipping line the pass must be valid in the country of departure and the country of arrival.

For holders of a Flexi pass reduction benefits can be used during the entire period of validity of the pass. Free travel benefits for Flexi pass holders can only occur on a date that has been marked on the Travel Calendar.

5. Recording Travel Diary details

Before boarding a train, bus, or boat, each journey must be recorded on the Travel Diary.

Please be aware that Travel Diary journey details are a crucial part of the ticket. Without these journey details your ticket is not valid.

Those who travel without having recorded Travel Diary journey details are subject to the payment of a full-fare ticket and a maximum fine of 200 euro, subject to the rules of the relevant railway undertaking.

6. Flexi Pass: Marking dates in the Travel Calendar

Flexi Pass holders may choose the days on which they travel within the period of overall validity of the pass. Before boarding the first train, bus, or boat on a travel day, the date must be marked on the Travel Calendar . This should be done with a pen with blue or black non-erasable ink in the corresponding boxes on the ticket, or, if applicable, by using the scratch ticket. Written dates must be entered with 2 digits (7th of May is 07/05) and in sequential order as in the following example:

	1	2	3	4	5
Day:	0	7
Month:	0	5

Those who travel on a date that has not been marked on the ticket are subject to the payment of a full-fare ticket and a maximum fine of 200 euro, subject to the rules of the relevant railway undertaking. Once a travel date is marked, any attempt to correct it will be considered an attempt of fraud and the ticket will be confiscated. If a mistake is made, the pass holder can:

- Mark the correct date on the Travel Calendar, which means that the pass holder loses a (non-refundable) travel day;
- or
- In all other cases, before ticket control, ask a ticket inspector for advice.

7. Flexi Pass: overnight journeys

If the pass holder boards a direct overnight train after 19.00h (7 pm), and the train arrives at its final destination after 04.00h (4 am), it is only necessary to mark the date of arrival on the Travel Calendar. This also covers travel between 19.00h (7 pm) and 24.00h (midnight) on the date of departure, as long as the dates of departure and arrival both fall within the overall period of the pass' validity. If the pass holder boards an overnight train before 19.00h (7 pm), it is necessary to use two travel days.

When using an overnight ferry covered by the pass, either the date of departure or arrival may be marked on the Travel Calendar

8. Seat availability, reservations and surcharges

An Interrail Pass does not guarantee a seat on a train or boat, unless a separate reservation is secured in advance. Fees for seat reservations, sleeping accommodation, port taxes, meals, and other services while on board of trains and boats are not included in the pass. For certain trains and ferries, reservations in advance are compulsory and surcharges and/or supplements may apply. Pass holders must book and/or pay in advance for the following:

- Seat reservation for most high-speed trains (like SNCF TGV, Thalys, Lyria, Trenitalia Freccia, RENFE AVE). The holder must pay charges and supplements in advance, in particular, those levied for seat reservations (sometimes additional services are included in the reservation fee),
- Sleeping accommodation: the use of sleeping accommodation (couchettes, beds and sleeperettes) for all night trains.
- Panoramic coach: some scenic trains have the option to travel in a special panoramic coach, which requires a reservation.

- Meals, which are included in the supplement of some trains.
- Other services offered on board trains (telephone, newspapers etc.).

Special ferry surcharges: pass holders must book and/or pay the following:

- The use of cabins, berths and reclining seats on ships of the ferry companies.
- Season supplements from June to September on the shipping lines operated by Attica Group (Superfast Ferries and Blue Star Ferries) or Minoan Lines between Italy and Greece.
- Port taxes.
- The use of certain boats.

9. Misuse of an Interrail Pass and confiscation

Railway staff are entitled to confiscate a pass:

- Which is a photocopy or a counterfeit.
- That is being used by anyone other than the person to whom it was issued.
- On which the data has been altered (on any of the boxes).
- Used outside its period of validity.
- Misused in the country of residence.
- Used without a passport or other recognized photographic identification document (no copies accepted).

Moreover, the pass holder is subject to the payment of a full fare ticket for the journey made and a maximum fine of 200 euro, subject to the rules of the relevant railway undertaking. In all the cases above, the pass holder is considered to be attempting fraud against both Eurail Group and the carrier they are travelling with. This will be reported to national authorities, who will determinate the appropriate penalties.

10. Luggage

With regard to the transportation of luggage, holders of an Interrail Pass are subject to the same conditions as holders of ordinary tickets of the railway undertaking of the train they travel on.

11. Interrail Pass period of validity

An Interrail Pass is valid within the overall time period indicated on the pass. Travel can begin after 00.00 hours on the first date of validity, and the last trip must be completed by midnight (24.00 hours) on the last date of validity.

12. 1st and 2nd class

An Interrail Pass is valid for travel in the class indicated on the ticket. 1st class passes are also valid in 2nd class carriages. Those wishing to travel 1st class with a 2nd class pass must pay the full difference between 1st and 2nd class fare on the respective route. There is no refund for 1st class pass holders travelling in 2nd class.

13. Eligibility

A duplicate Interrail Pass cannot be issued for those that are damaged, lost or stolen. Passes bearing incorrect information due to a mistake made by the issuing office can only be replaced by the issuing office.

15. Interrail Pass categories

Restrictions apply to using Interrail Passes in different categories:

- A Child Pass can only be used by travellers who are younger than 12 years of age on the first day that the pass is valid. A Child Pass can only be used in combination with an Adult Pass and a maximum of two Child Passes per Adult Pass can be issued. Children younger than 4 years of age can travel for free and without a pass, unless a separate seat or bed is requested. In that case a separate Child ticket or pass may be required.
- A Youth Pass can only be used by travellers who are younger than 26 years of age on the first day that the pass is valid.
- A Senior Pass can only be used by travellers who are at least 60 years of age on the first day that the pass is valid.

16. Cancellation and refund policy

In order to obtain a refund, the pass holder shall either:

- Return the pass to the place of purchase before the first day of validity, or
- Have a railway official certify the ticket as “UNUSED” before the first day of validity.

Refund applications for passes certified as “UNUSED” are accepted up to one month after the last day of validity. Refunds are subject to the deduction of a 15% cancellation fee. Passes that are partially used, lost, damaged or stolen will not be refunded or replaced.

The same applies to tickets of any sort purchased to replace lost or stolen tickets. All refund requests must be made in writing by the ticket holder exclusively at the company where the pass in question has been purchased, while presenting the original ticket in its Pass Cover.

17. Liability

Eurail Group G.I.E. only acts as an intermediary of the European carriers and is not liable for operation of the carriers or for damages or extra costs incurred due to loss of baggage, theft, force majeure, strikes, cancelled trains or other causes.

18. Compensation policy

In the event that a pass holder experiences during the period of validity of the pass, three or more train delays that are longer than 60 minutes each, he/she will have the right to apply for compensation from the Eurail Group (two or more delays in case of a One Country Pass). For further information and for details on the procedure for compensation, please refer to www.eurailgroup.org/compensation.

19. Legal provisions

Pass holders are subject to these Conditions of Use and to the Conditions of Transport of the carrier(s) that they utilize with the Interrail Pass, as well as to applicable legislation including EU regulation (CE) 1371/2007, when travelling in EU member states. If the carriers involved in the services have implemented the "Uniform Rules concerning the contract for GCC-CIV/PRR", the transport will be also subject to these rules. Any dispute is subject to the jurisdiction of the country where the transport was or should have been performed.

20. Prevalence of English version

In the event of a conflict between the English version and other linguistic versions of these Conditions of Use, the English version (see www.eurailgroup.org/InterrailCOU) shall prevail.

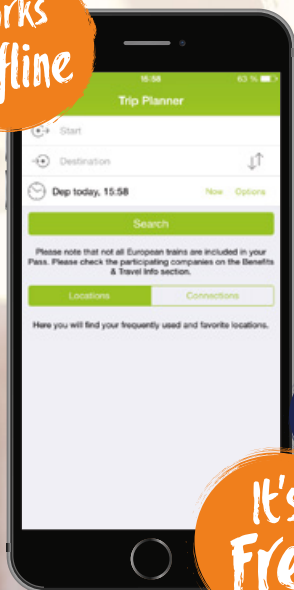

In case you run out of space on your Pass Cover for recording your trips, you can use these extra lines. Please show them together with your Pass Cover to the Ticket Inspector. Make sure that these extra pages are also attached if you decide to send in your Pass Cover.
